

Give your community your very best...YOU! We are currently looking for those with experience in the Emergency Medical Services to help prepare for the unexpected. As a volunteer, you will be helping your community avoid unnecessary hardships while also making certain your family is prepared. You will also have opportunities to enhance public health initiatives throughout the year, strengthening response during emergencies.

The NE MN Responds Medical Reserve Corps works with other local agencies to ensure our region is ready to respond to community health emergencies. You can help us be prepared to respond should a disaster strike. Trainings include learning about emergency and public health procedures, current infectious diseases, family preparedness, psychological first aid, and the Incident Management structure.

Volunteering is as simple as registering at: www.mnresponds.org
